PROD FOR ATTORNEY.

New York Assembly After State Prosecutor.

In the New York legislature Wednesday Senator Martin Saxe, of New York, introduced a concurrent resolution providing for a legislative investigation of the conduct of the office of attorney general of the state during the administration of the incumbent, William Schuyler Jackson, of Buffalo, and especially with reference to receiverships of banks and trust companies. Mr. Jackson was elected on the Democratic-Independence league ticket in November, 1906, and has been in office since Jan. 1, 1907.

The general impression about the sagittal Wednesday night was that the resolution will be adopted and that the investigation will be instituted. The essential paragraph of the resolution recites that during the present panic a large number of financial institutions in New York City were compelled to suspend and that it has been widely charged that the office of attorney general has been used by Mr. Jackson and his subordinate to prevent resumption of solvent banks and trust companies; that he has procured the appointment of political favorites as receivers of such institutions, and that by "corrupt practices in the attorney general's office the present financial depression and distress have been prolonged."

Nebraska State News

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

In a Runaway Woman's Carriage Collapses on Railroad Track.

While driving to town from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ipsen, who reside southeast of Beatrice, Mrs. H. L. Silver had a thrilling experience with a runaway team. One of the horses got its foot over the buggy tongue, and in trying to free it, the team broke away from her and dashed up the road at a lively pace. Upon reaching a Rock Island railroad crossing one of the horses stumbled and fell. Arriving a few minutes later, Mrs. Silver found the horse entangled in the harness to such an extent that she could not extricate it. The buggy stood in the middle of the track, and not far distant a freight train was approaching. The only way out of the predicament lay in an attempt to flag the train. Using her gloves for this purpose, the train was brought to a standstill a few yards from where she stood. The trainmen came forward and released the horse from its position. Mrs. Silver led the team back to her father's home, where it was found that the animal was injured about the legs, while the buggy was almost completely smashed.

THE WEEKLY HISTORIAN

ALL NAVAL RECORDS BROKEN.

Great Armada Steams Into Bay Four Days Ahead of Time.

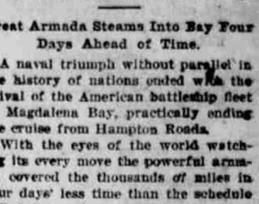

A naval triumph without parallel in the history of nations ended with the arrival of the American battleship fleet in Magdalena Bay, practically ending the cruise from Hampton Roads. With the eyes of the world watching its every move the powerful armada covered the thousands of miles in four days' less time than the schedule called for, and at no stage was there any reason to fear that it would overcome the obstacles that beset it. With every nut and bolt of its intricate mechanism in better condition than when the start was made, and every gun ready to bellow defiance at any foe, the great dogs of war afforded as impressive display of strength as any world power could put forth when they steamed through the darkness of early morning from outside the bay, where they had lain at anchor during the night. Strikingly characteristic and with a suggestion of deeper meaning, was the blunt declaration of Rear Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans: "We are ready for any emergency." Reduced to language that is not so diplomatic, the statement of the man who has commanded the "big sixteen" on the long cruise was: "We are ready for war." The possibility of a clash with an unfriendly nation painted in vivid colors when the undertaking was begun and lost for view for a time while Jap, German, Englishman, Russian and the others silently watched the progress of the ships seemed to assert itself again with the utterance of the admiral. The news of the arrival came as a big surprise. The itinerary did not call for the arrival of the ships at Magdalena so soon. The important fact is that most of the gain in time was made on the last stretch of the voyage from Callao, South America. Previous to the visit at that port the fleet was kept on schedule, making the various stops the full length called for in the itinerary. Now that the entire fleet is in even better condition than at the time it started on its long cruise, the mammoth naval undertaking is crowned with boundless success.

PRIEST'S SLAYER MUST DIE.

Court Sentences Assassin of Father Heinrichs to the Gallows.

delivered by a jury of his peers just eighteen days after firing the shot that brought death to the priest while in the act of administering the holy sacrament. The only defense offered by the attorney for the prisoner was a direct denial that the slayer was an anarchist, and a declaration that the compelling cause of the crime was insanity. The sentence cannot take effect within sixty days. The only words Alla uttered on hearing his doom were: "Is there no appeal?" Then his chin sank on his breast, and he made no further comment.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY.

Minnesota jewelers, at their convention in Minneapolis, voted to continue their war on catalogue houses.

Five bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal church have joined in a complaint to the interstate commerce commission of unjust, discriminatory and unlawful treatment at the hands of several interstate railroad companies of the South.

The commission is requested to issue an order putting an end to the alleged discrimination and to compel the defendants to provide first-class accommodations for negro passengers.

Twenty-five million tons is the general estimate of Lake Superior ore shipments for the coming season, as compared with more than 42,000,000 tons last year. Some of the estimates for this year are as low as 20,000,000 tons, but this figure is believed to be too small.

Suburban electric railroads will pay their Minnesota taxes this year on the basis of the assessment of their property in the various communities through which their lines run and not on the gross earnings basis. Their property has already been assessed, and there is not time to make a report on gross earnings.
